Focus Question

How are the birds in this book alike? How are they different?

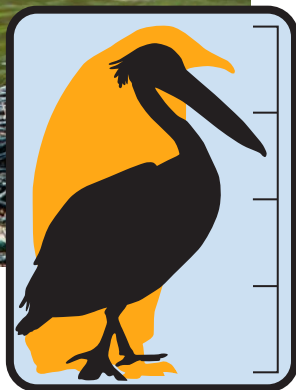

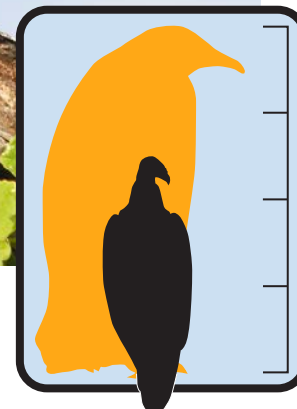

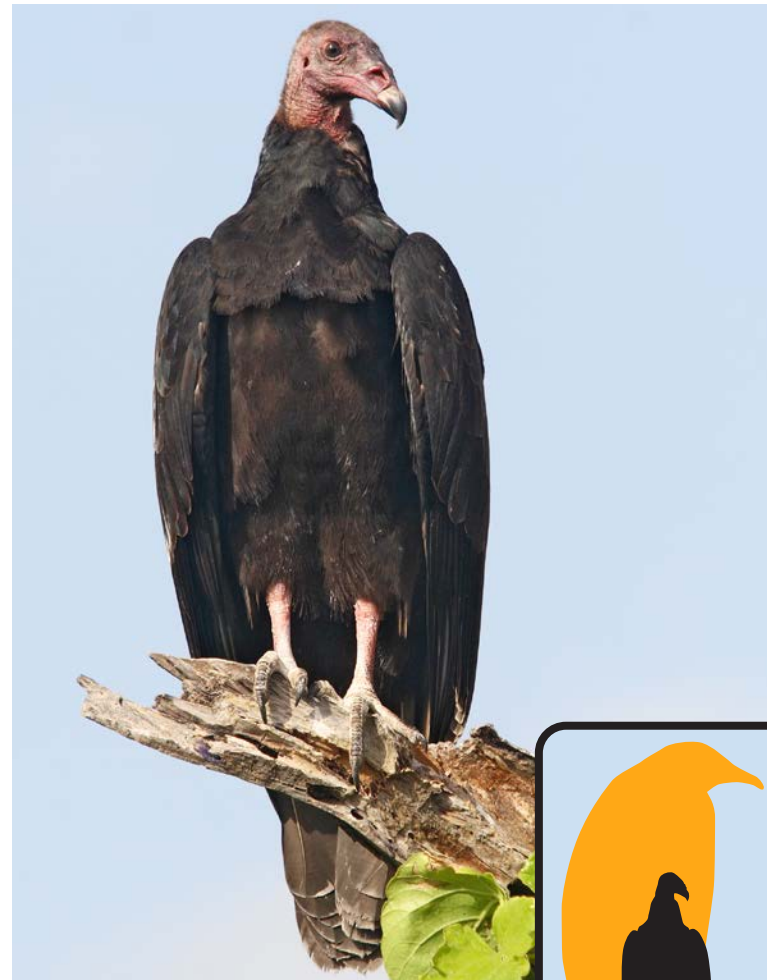

This is a bird.
All birds have feathers,
and all birds have beaks.
But all birds are different, too.

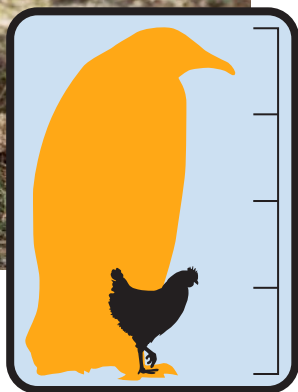

This is a bird.
Its beak is long and sharp,
and its feathers are black and white.
It is an emperor penguin.

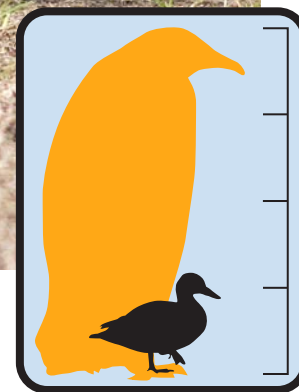

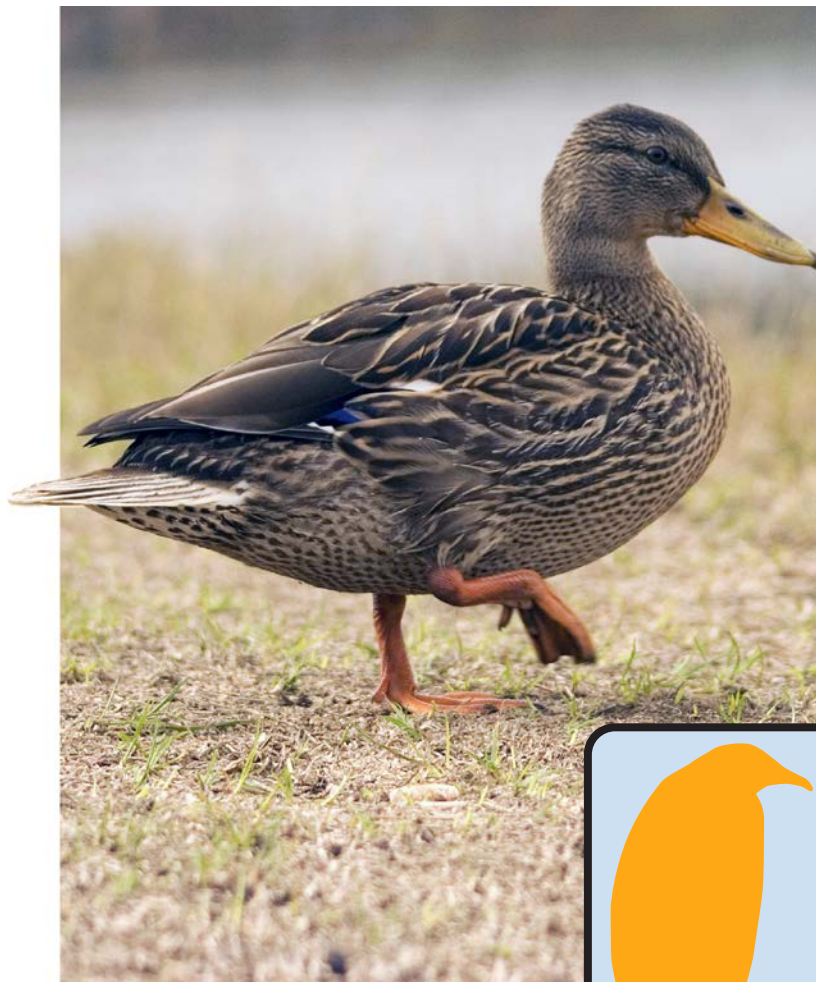

This is a bird.
Its beak is long and hooked,
and its feathers are white.
It is a pelican.

Its beak is short and sharp,
and its feathers are red.
It is a cardinal.

This is a bird.
Its beak is long and thin,
and its feathers are purple,
green, and gray.
It is a Costa's hummingbird.

In some ways, all birds
are the same.
All birds have beaks,
and all birds have feathers.
But all birds are different, too.
